Unión musicologique, The Hague.

Founded 1921 as a Dutch society to be directed until 1925 by representatives of several countries, its fundamental principle being to recognize the complete independence of the national musicological societies. In June 1926 a Musikwissenschaftlicher kongress der Union musicologique was held in Leiden. The union ceased to exist in 1927, upon the death of its founder and promoter, Dr. D. F. Scheurbeek. In 1927 the Internationale Gesellschaft für Musikwissenschaft (Société internationale de musicologie; International society of musicology) was established at Basel, constituting the effort of various societies and congresses to revive the work of the International musical society (founded 1890) which had been dissolved 1914 as a result of the European war. The new international society is entered in the Library of Congress catalogue under the heading: International society of musicology.

Union synod of the Evangelical Lutheran church.

Organized in 1889 by former members of the defunct Evangelical Lutheran synod of Indiana. In 1890 it was a member of the General synod. In 1890 it resolved to join the General council, but dissolved in 1871. Its pastors helped to form the fourth Indiana synod which was a member of the General council and later became the Chicago synod.

Organized in May 1856 as the Virginia conference of the Tennessee synod. When the Tennessee synod in 1821 merged with the North Carolina synod to form the United Evangelical Lutheran synod of North Carolina, this conference became the Virginia conference of the new merged body and continued to number its minutes consecutively with those prior to the merger. In 1925 this conference joined the Virginia synod, changed its name to New Market conference and began to number its minutes anew.

United Lutheran church in America.

Formed November 1918 by the union of the General synod of the Evangelical Lutheran church in the United States of America, the General council of the Evangelical Lutheran church in North America, and the United synod of the Evangelical Lutheran church in the South. The three bodies thus united will maintain, for a time at least, their own legal existence as separate bodies, in order to safeguard their property rights and other interests.
